MONSANTO'S GE BULLSHIT RETURNED

Staff turning up for work at Monsanto's offices in both London and High Wycombe recently were greeted by a pile of bullshit which bore the message: "WE DON'T WANT MONSANTO'S BULLSHIT". A banner above the door read "KEEP ORGANIC FREE OF GENETIC ENGINEERING" (see photo below).

Super Heroes Against Genetics swooped in to alert the world to Monsanto's plans to contaminate organic food with genetically modified organisms. The action came as the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) concluded a 6-month consultation period on the definition of organic standards. This received over 100,000 complaints from around the world, particularly focussing on proposals to classify genetically engineered food as organic.

A Super Hero commented "This is yet another assault on truly sustainable agriculture. Companies such as Monsanto are attempting to swamp the market with unwanted and unnecessary genetically modified crops as well as threatening the nature of organic agriculture as a safe, natural and sustainable alternative to big agribusiness. We must stop this corporate bullying now."

As the deadline fell on the consultation period the US Agriculture Secretary responded to the intense pressure and criticism by suggesting that genetically engineered and irradiated food, and crops fertilized with sewage sludge, should not be allowed to be labelled organic. While these comments are welcome, representatives of the US organic industry still see even these concessions as insufficient: the decision is not yet formalised and also could be undermined by a provision in the proposed rule that gives the agriculture secretary authority to add products to a national list of approved organic foods. * On April 28th a farmer in Totonac received a visit from 600 local people, concerned about his release site of GM maize and the threat it posed to the local environment, their health and the local organic farmer's corn growing just metres away *

DERBY DEVELOPMENT D-I-Y

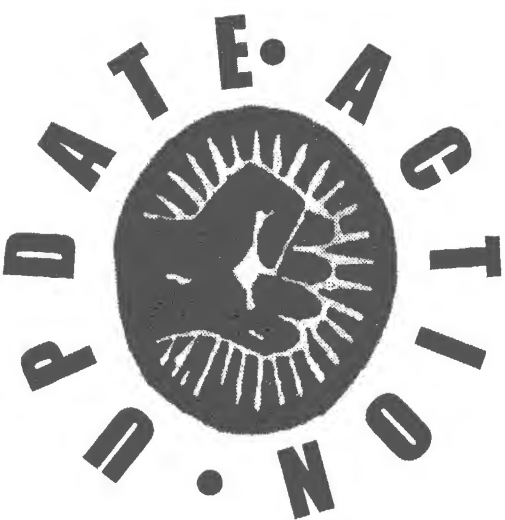

The Bass Recreation Park Camp in Derby is going strong, with about 20 folk living in to protect public-owned green space from being turned into a shopping centre. As a grade 1 wildlife site, the park gives diverse species such as water and land plants, kingfishers, local walkers and footballers a place in common. Locals have been energetically getting together a petition of 10,000 signatures in objection to such a disposal of public space, and on May 4th marched to the local council to deliver 200 letters of protest. Several events are planned around the campaign - a Planning for Real day in June to come up with a 'people's plan' for the site, a Reclaim the Park and open weekend in early summer, and several benefit gigs. Campaigners are worried that they may be up for eviction now that the council elections are over so help is needed - anything from how to tie a walkway to how to set up a phone tree. CITY CAMP AT CRYSTAL PALACE

Bromley council plan to 'develop' the site of the historic Crystal Palace which stood on the highest point in South London until it burned down in 1936. An understanding existed that if anything was to be built on the site it would 'reflect the style of the original Crystal Palace'. However current plans are for 18 multiplex cinemas and parking for 1000 cars on the roof. A recent public meeting saw significant sums of money raised to fight proposals and saw huge support for protestors who have set up a camp on the site. The camp is next to the radio tower in Crystal Palace Park and is easily seen for miles around. A circular garden has been designed and there is a fine communal structure as well as space for tents and benders and tree houses. Contact 0181 761 7826

CORPORATE ACTION NETWORK

On April 20, activists from the Corporate Action Network invaded the offices of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC) protesting against the Multilateral Agreement on Investment (MAI). Appalled by the ICC's stance supporting the MAI, the activists occupied the office of chairman Richard Bate, refusing to leave until a meeting had been arranged. Mr Bate claimed to be happy to argue with activists as long as they contact him (0171 823 2811) to make an appointment. The main MAI negotiations have stopped temporarily, to give activists a fighting chance.

CREATING CARNIVAL AND FESTIVAL..IT'S RTS TIME OF YEAR..

THE GOOD NEWS...CAMBRIDGE

Cambridge pulled off a successful street party on 25th May. cunningly disguised as nuns, a small group of activists led the crowd from the railway station to a key road, less than 100 yards from the police station.

As the sound system pumped up the volume, those who weren't queuing outside Oddbins or stuck in traffic jams were surprised to notice an animal rights demo passing. These benevolent passers-by seemed delighted to join the festivities and soon the party stretched all the way to the police station. It was not long before the strong arm of the law flexed its gorex-clad muscles, plucking approximately 17 unsuspecting merry-makers from the crowd. Two police officers needed hospital treatment after the wind blew their CS gas sprays back into their faces.

THE BAD NEWS...EDINBURGH

Two hours before the Edinburgh RTS was due to kick off, 30 police descended on five of the organisers and detained them for 'suspected conspiracy to cause a breach of the peace'. They also impounded a sound system, banners, the portable zebra crossing, a large barrel full of concrete, a pedal-powered police car and a bike. (could next column) whilst their elbows were twisted another. All needed hospital treatment. This has implications for protests around the country. The officer in charge claimed to be using 'approved techniques'. The evidence is now with solicitors and it appears the case hinges on two main issues: 1) the police are able to use these levels of force but not in this context, ie these techniques are for specific life threatening situations 2) the other possibility is that the police are sanctioned to do what they like, in which case this will have to be taken to the European court of human rights.

The suspected RTS miscreants were held for 4 hours until 'the reason for their detention no longer existed'. Meanwhile the meeting point was swamped with mounted police and 12 van loads with riot gear. No arrests, no charges, no street party.

In the near future street parties will be taking place in Hull, Lancaster, Leeds, various London areas and Salisbury (see Events for details).

This, of course, is not including the Global Street Party planned for 16th May. To date the party-o-meter for this worldwide event stands at a phenomenal 28 parties in 19 countries. Contact 0171 281 4621 for an event near you.

talks to iron out any problems. There was only one arrest at the action - a cameraman making a film about cameramen being arrested, the police attitude to him changed completely when they realised what he was doing. Contact CorporateWatch (from end of May) 01865 791391

DIRECT ACTION PLEDGE HELPS SAVE VALLEY

So incensed were the residents of Peacehaven by the government's proposal to build 113 commuter belt houses in their valley that they decided upon direct action as a possible first resort. Earth Firsters however took a back seat to act merely as catalysts while the Mayor, leader of the town council, councillors from all parties, teachers, families and veterans in their 80's signed up to a pledge to "look on and be arrested". This came as a result of a meeting where local activists were invited to discuss tactics - a unanimous decision was taken for a bulldozer pledge to be circulated. The valley that lies on the north edge of Peacehaven is a mixture of wooded areas, pasture and scrub land with a wide range of flora and fauna. The eastern valley is an SCNI with the west and north bordering on the downlands designated AONB (Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty). The 'Save the Valley' campaign stated that no sufficient environmental assessment was done, not to mention the social impact of new families nesting in an area short of schools, employment, water supply and sewage systems and killing the only remaining recreational space.

Feeling outraged by the decision of the Environment Secretary, John Prescott, to overturn the council's ruling against the new homes, the local community took their battle to the High Court and took the direct action pledge to Prescott. The pledge stated, "We all hope that the High Court will overturn this undemocratic decision, but if it does not, we the undersigned are prepared to take on nonviolent direct action." After a two day hearing the judge ruled that Prescott had clearly failed to abide by the government's own guidelines in giving permission for 113 homes to be built on a greenfield site. This is the first time the government has faced - and lost - a High Court challenge to a greenfield housing decision. Contact South Downs EFi

EFI GATHERING 1998

The 1998 EFi Gathering is taking place in the south west of England around end August/September.

More details will be available nearer the time for you but for now the following is needed from you:

Equipment plea: Marquees, domes, tents, sound equipment, cinema, alternative energy, transport for moving equipment, plumbing stuff, paint / board for signs, blackboards, selotape, condoms, C.B.s, site office & office equipment, 1st aid kit, outdoor electricity equipment, flip charts, pens, flouro jackets, torches, cushions, carpet..... and anything else useful you can think of!

Also needed: People with knowledge of First Aid / Health and Safety and all else useful..... If anyone has any (or all) of the above (or knows of anyone that has) and would be up for lending them to the gathering (we may be able to pay transport costs) then please contact the site crew, at: cornerstone@gn.apc.org / 0113 262 9365. The gathering can only take place successfully if we get together all the equipment we need. We have very little money and even less equipment at the moment, so please help if you can.

COUNCIL NIL, FASLANE ONE!

On April 6th Argyll & Bute council's eviction attempt against Faslane Peace Camp, Britain's longest-running protest camp, was thrown out of court. However, an appeal hearing is expected late May/early June. More money and bodies are needed to defeat this threat. Campers have demanded a public enquiry into the running of Argyll & Bute council, which has constantly misled the public, stating that there is a 900-signature petition against the camp. There is not - only a 13-year-old petition against a former separate camp. 01546 604 263 is the number for complaints on this.

Meanwhile campers continue their campaigning against the 300 Trident nuclear warheads based in Scotland. The south gate of Faslane Naval Base is disrupted daily, with base workers' cars having to be diverted, and invading campers force shut-downs for security sweeps.

On March 30th campers disrupted the sailing of a Trident submarine (which has the destructive capacity of 1280 Hiroshima bombs) for 5 hours. Large sections of the base fence have also vanished.

On May 30/31 the camp is having a "business as usual" weekend of partying and actions. The camp turns 'sweet sixteen' on Monday June 15th, with partying beginning on Friday 12th. Come along for summer fun and defiance by the Gareloch. Contact 01436 820901.

BEAL VALLEY HOME VISIT

On Saturday 25th April Oldham EFi activists, including 3 children, descended on the home of Peter Casey of Casey Construction Group, contractors for the landfill project in the Beal Valley. Paripart Landfill is planning to first create a toxic waste dump and then turn it into a golf course. A campaign against these proposals is ongoing - activists have already invaded council meetings and blockaded the site before this most recent visit to the contractor's home.

The entrance to Casey's "Mansion" was blockaded until he came out to see what the commotion was. When he went back to his house everyone went for a walk in his garden. More Beal Valley actions are planned (see Events). Contact Oldham EFi 0161 628 5128

BAC EASTER ACTION

Just before midnight on Easter Sunday 12 peace protesters, including three East Timorese victims of genocide, entered the British Aerospace factory at Watton. Calling upon the government and British Aerospace to choose life over death they held a Christian liturgy and planted seeds in a symbolic gesture of hope for the end of arms sales to Indonesia. All twelve were arrested.

The following day a mass liturgy was held outside the gates of the British Aerospace factory. As soon as it was over those who had been arrested the previous night were released without charge.

The ongoing trial of six East Timorese exiles and three Britons who followed a similar line of civil disobedience last November has been postponed while the company do everything in their power to stop high ranking BAC witnesses being called to give evidence for the defence.

RADSTOCK RAILWAY

The campaign at Radstock Railway continues. A camp has been set up in an area in which Bath and North Somerset Council are planning to build housing, shops and industrial units. The development would destroy a Site of Nature Conservation Importance. Proposals have also been put forward to reopen a railway line on what the campaigners now believe to be common land - its former owner, the National Coal Board, having closed the line a while ago. Lack of campers has been a disappointment recently. Contact Bath EFi 01249 713742

HILLGROVE CATS DEMO

Hillgrove Farm has been breeding cats and kittens for the vivisection industry for the last thirty years. Charging £400 per kitten, this is big business. Six national demonstrations have taken place since Save the Hillgrove Cats was formed in August 1997 and numbers at the demos have soared from a few hundred to over 3 000 at the most recent event on 18th April. These people are not merely hardcore activists as some of the press would have us believe but are many ordinary people from around the Oxford area.

The cost of policing Hillgrove Farm in the last 8 months is around £1million: local taxpayers are apparently angry that this huge sum of money is being spent to protect a concentration camp for cats with the police being used as

SELLAFIELD CASTOR TRANSPORT DELAYED

On the 6th of April about 30 activists went to stop a nuclear waste train carrying three CASTORS travelling from Germany to Sellafield. One group locked onto the railtrack near Sellafield with thumbcuffs. The police responded to the situation with force, arresting everyone who wasn't locked on inside half an hour and then brutally removing those who were, dragging them out of their thumbcuffs or cutting through them with boltcutters having little regard for safety.

This delayed the train by maybe two hours and all of the first group of activists had just been arrested when over the dunes came a valiant second wave, arriving in time to watch the first group be driven away. They did however manage to delay the train further through police paranoia.

18 arrests took place but nobody was charged, although videotape was confiscated. There was much evidence of local support, from cars beeping past the police station to old men in the pub afterwards. It was felt to be a positive action, everyone intended to go home and set up affinity groups to make the next one even more so.

BICYCLING AGAINST THE BIRMINGHAM NORTHERN RELIEF ROAD

The March 14 "Cycle Lanes Not Fast Lanes - Stop the BNR" Rally in Birmingham was supported by 50 cyclists, including several kids on their BMXs, plus some skateboarders and rollerbladers. The city's normally car-mad inner ring-road was gridlocked by the actions of the happy, slow (very slow) -moving riders. Music was provided by the bike-mounted "Little Nora" sound system. The one sour note was a malicious bus driver who drove his bus at a cyclist, knocking him off and bucking his rear wheel. The police, who had continually threatened to arrest everyone for obstruction, showed their customary bias by throwing the damaged bike onto the pavement and refusing to take action against the driver. The action ended at the local Highways Agency office where a copy of Max Power magazine and a large photocopy of car-junkie Jeremy Clarkson went up in flames to the accompaniment of whoops and cheers.

A private security force.

The 1000 cats and kittens at Hillgrove Farm are kept in windowless sheds and all of the cats sold end up in vivisection laboratories all over the world. The breeding queens are bred from continuously until they are exhausted - then they are destroyed.

CHESTER EU PROTEST

As EU Transport and Environment Ministers met in Chester at the end of April they were confronted with the spectacle of banner waving EF'ers and a 10 minute car-bashing. Later on, the UK's John Prescott was interrupted as he opened a greenwash transport exhibition and a spokesman for the car industry was silenced when his microphone was grabbed by activists.

DELTA/SHELL UPDATE

In Shell-backed Nigeria, General Abacha continues his plans to succeed himself as a civilian dictator this year. Pro-Abacha rallies have been organised by front groups such as the enthusiastically-named 'Youths Earnestly Ask for Abacha 98', but opposition groups gathering under the banner of the newly active United Action for Democracy have held counter-rallies. It is certain that this year will see a significant challenge to the State in Nigeria.

During January the Niger Delta suffered one of the worst oil spills in recent years courtesy of Mobil. 90% of Nigeria's coastline was affected. From the end of January a fire burned adjacent to Shell facilities in Rivers State, leading to much protest. A year-old Shell oil spill in Bayelsa state also caught fire through negligence and caused massive damage from the end of March.

The 20 Ogonis being held hostage by the government are still in appalling conditions in Port Harcourt prison. OCCUPY A GENETIX TEST SITE

MAY 23/24

Spring is coming so let's have some fun!!

At the current time agriculture is taking a big leap forward into the world of genetic engineering. It's where the money, power and Nobel prizes are. For a number of reasons many people are unhappy about the risks involved with changing both our diet and our countryside in a way unseen since the green revolution. Science seems to be yet again creating a tunnel vision for agricultural research, leaving no money for work on organic and alternative farming techniques. Under the spurious argument of sustainable agriculture we have seen the development of herbicide tolerant crops (obviously these varieties will bring back our topsoil, hedgerows, jobs..??). It would seem that the idea of sustainable agriculture has been twisted by the Multinational Corporations. At a time when the British government is discussing how they can back organic farming and the Common Agricultural Policy (CAP) is under review, we need to question the often made presumption that genetic engineering is a necessary part of progress and is therefore inevitable.

An idea has formed to create, for one month, a site which demonstrates our disdain at the current direction of agriculture and puts forward sensible alternatives. In order to do this lots of people, tat, workshops, singing and tidiness are needed. The tidiness issue has been discussed and it was felt that the site must put forward a positive image which will not alienate people but make them say "oh, isn't that a good idea".

The location of this site is at present confidential but the ideas around what will happen there are open for discussion.

WHAT COULD THE SITE BE LIKE?

The current idea is to create a site which is clean, tidy and has areas that show the many examples of sustainable agriculture and living. Some examples are areas of intercropping vegetables with herbs; areas showing methods of maintaining ground cover for the entire year; how to make compost; how to use wind and solar power and there may be a full permaculture design course running. These are some ideas, all will be shown clearly with info boards to explain them. Some will need people to run workshops, others may jsut need to be set up.

Some ground rules have been laid down to give a good feel to the site. It will not be a holiday camp, though it is hoped that people will enjoy it. So far the idea of no drinking before dark has been discussed and limiting the number of vehicles on site. Only vehicles which have a definite role on site that cannot be filled any other way are wanted. This may include a catering van for example. All vehicles should be by prior arrangement NOW. If you have a vehicle which you think may be useful get in touch right away. There will be communal sleeping space and an area for people to put up their own tents, benders, etc. The site should be big enough for about 100 - 200 people.

To create this haven of sensibility help is needed. Below is a wish list. If you can help with any of the items on it get in touch. They can be picked up - once a van is acquired!

It is essential for now for people to grow seedlings and young plants to create instant gardens. Herbs and vegetables are a priority but flowers (especially those with medicinal properties) will give the site a good feel.

JOBS/ROLES

If you want to help in these areas get in touch:

* catering * helping design the site and thinking about how a permaculture course could be run there * legal eviction challenging * skills to design/build a section of the site * looking after kids * looking after adults * producing professional display boards * growing seedlings *

THE WISH LIST

All these things are needed and can be picked up

* money, money, money! * van - either to buy or lend for a few months * tarps * benders, yurts, etc * poles (willow and scaff) * kitchen tat * oil drums * gas bottles * wood burners * flue pipe * drain pipes * cement, sand and aggregate * fairy lights * lanterns * solar and wind generators * garden stuff - wheelbarrows, spades, hoes, rakes, trowels, mulch - old carpet, rotted leaves * DIY stuff - saws, hammers, drills, nails, screws, paint and paint brushes * straw bales * tyres * stuff to make a bender look/feel nice - carpets, blankets, cushions * water butts * brew kegs * crumpets * video camera * blue water pipe * tressel tables * compost loos * wood off cuts * planks of wood * and generally things to make the site work well and feel comfortable.

WHAT IS EARTH FIRST!?

Earth First! is not a cohesive group or a campaign, but a convenient banner for people who share similar philosophies to work under. The general principles behind the name are non-hierarchical organisation and the use of direct action to confront, stop, and eventually reverse the forces that are responsible for the destruction of the Earth and it's inhabitants. The above contacts are autonomous groups that consider themselves to share these principles. International contacts are entry points into that country's own network of groups. Other contacts are ones whose aims and principles are ones that we agree with fully or in part, or groups that we think may be of use or interest to people.

NEW ADDITIONS OR ALTERATIONS ARE SHOWN IN BOLD.
